OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BY VIRGINIA WESTOVER.

Correspondents are requested to send communications on subjects in which they are interested and regarding which they desire information to the Editor of the Woman's Page.

St. John's Church.

Which of the ladies of the White House in Washington have been associated with historic old St. John's Church there?

Mrs. Dolly Madison, who was baptized in St. John's and buried from it; Mrs. Monroe and her daughter, Maria Monroe; Mrs. John Tyler, Mrs. Semple, Miss Harriet Lane and Mrs. Roosevelt.

English Suffragettes.

Are the English suffragette sympathizers unanimous in desiring the privileges of the ballot? What have they to say of the hardships of imprisonment? What suffragette leaders beside Mrs. Pankhurst are now in the United States? F. C. O.

A strong and growing association of women, known as the Woman's National Anti-Suffrage League, has been formed in London, and it is believed that many well informed women do not desire the ballot, citing the passage of such acts by Parliament as the married woman's property act, the summary jurisdiction act and the factory and workshop act as indicative of the mindfulness of that great body of its duties toward women. In describing confinement in Holloway prison, London, a suffragette speaks of the physical hardships as practically nil, while the loss of identity in the system of numbering and the sense of constant supervision seem maddening. Lady Frances Cook, of England, formerly Miss Tennessee Carlin, of the United States; Mrs. Samuel Untermyer, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. Clarence Mackay are prominent women identified with the suffragette movement, the three last mentioned being American women who have their homes in this country.

Mrs. Palmer and the Princess. What is the story told of how Mrs. Potter Palmer and the Princess Eulalie of Spain, clashed during the World's Fair, and of how the tables have been turned since? B. J.

At the World's Fair Mrs. Palmer was president of the board of lady managers, and represented the women of America. The Princess Eulalie came to represent the women of Spain. Mrs. Palmer planned an elegant reception, at which visiting representatives were to be entertained. Princess Eulalie came, turned up her aristocratic nose and, after a few moments, left for her hotel, declaring that she was not accustomed to being entertained by an innkeeper's wife. Every one present was made aware of the snub she administered. Mrs. Palmer remained outwardly calm and performed her duties as hostess without taking the least notice of the princess. A few years later the tables were turned, and Mrs. Palmer refused an invitation when in Paris from baronesses, who were entertaining the Infanta. Later, at Lucerne, when the two women occupied apartments at the same hotel, it was the princess and not Mrs. Palmer who was forced to leave, to avoid an unpleasant juxtaposition.

Home Made Perfumes. Can you give me an old-fashioned recipe for home made perfumes? C. H. M.

dish. Repeat this operation until you have procured the strength you desire. Then pour the essence into a new jar and thoroughly mix with it an equal quantity of pure, refined spirits. Nesselrode Pudding.

How is Nesselrode pudding made?

A. G. Take one pint of shelled almonds, a pint and a half of shelled chestnuts, a pint of cream, a pint of crushed pineapple and juice, the yolks of ten eggs, half a pound of candied fruit, a tablespoonful of vanilla, four tablespoonfuls of fruit juice and a pint each of sugar and water. Cook the chestnuts half an hour, remove their skins and pound to a paste in a mortar. Blanch the almonds and pound also. Cook the sugar, water and juice of the pineapple twenty minutes, and pour over the well beaten yolks of four eggs. Stir well, then set the bowl containing the mixture into a larger pan of boiling water, and beat with the egg-beater until thickened. Take from the fire, set in a pan of cold water and beat ten minutes longer. Mix the nuts with the cream and rub through a sieve. Add the candied fruit and pineapple pulp, then mix whole with sugar syrup, eggs and juice. Add flavoring and a pinch of salt, and freeze.

Adjusting a Collar.

How should a collar be adjusted to a waist so that it will look well and set smoothly? N. V.

Be sure that the collar is right as to height and width. Turn under the upper edge, clipping it to prevent drawing, and hem it down. Turn under the lower edge three-eighths of an inch. Put the waist on and have some one to pin the collar carefully over it, allowing it to take the natural line of the neck. Take off the waist and tack the collar firmly into position. Adjust the lining and press it with a warm iron.

Women's Club Work.

Can you mention some thoroughly patriotic and philanthropic work that has been accomplished in this country and others by women belonging to organizations? E. L. T.

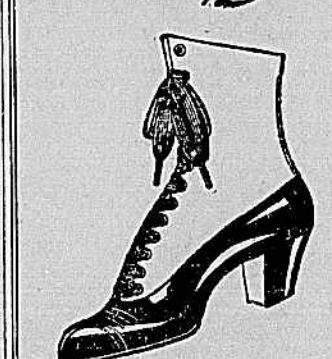

California women have saved the big trees, Colorado women, the cliff dwellings, and New Jersey women, the palisades. In the South the women have kindled the fire of national pride at Jamestown Island, have preserved history and have built monuments. Elizabeth Peabody, a woman, introduced the kindergarten into America. Josephine Russell Lowell founded the New York Charity Organization. Elizabeth Fry revolutionized methods of prison administration, and Florence Nightingale, the methods of conducting hospitals. Southern women have led the crusade for better schools and better education in their section.

REX NEW, November 14.—Margaret Illington, who received a divorce three days ago from Daniel Frohman, the New York theatrical manager, was married here last evening to Edward J. Bowes, the Tacoma millionaire. The wedding was performed in the cottage where Miss Illington has spent the last six months. Her father, I. H. Light, of Bloomington, Ill., gave his daughter away. The license was issued in the names of Edward J. Bowes and Margaret Light. The newly married couple, with maid, departed an hour later for Tacoma, their new home, by way of San Francisco. The two parents were the only ones bidding them "goodby" at the depot at 7:30 o'clock in a blinding snowstorm.

Mr. and Mrs. Light departed on the night limited for their home in Bloomington, Ill. Secrecy surrounded every act.

TILLMAN "GROTESQUE" AS WARD M'ALLISTER

Gonzales Hands Out Hot Talk to South Carolina Senator for His Refusal to Attend Taft Banquet.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 14.—The incident of the refusal of Senator Tillman to attend the luncheon given President Taft in Columbia, the subject of newspaper discussion throughout South Carolina, has a second chapter in a statement made today by William E. Gonzales, editor of the State, who, with Governor Ansel and Mayor Ream, of Columbia, constituted the central committee in charge of the President's entertainment.

Senator Tillman alleged that in inviting him to pay $10 for his plate "decency" and "self-respecting hospitality" were violated. In a public address on Friday last Senator Tillman repeated these allegations.

The committee declined to speak until the President had come and gone. In his statement Mr. Gonzales says he objected to the entertainment of the President at the Governor's mansion, because Mr. Taft had been invited here by State and city, and his entertainment should be State-wide in its significance. A substitute proposal of a public dinner, with officials, the judicial function, and men of learning and of worthy achievement from all parts of the State to be invited to be hosts, was accepted. There were no "guests" except the President's party.

This, according to the committee's idea, would be additional honor to the President and an honor for the hosts. None objected but Tillman.

That Columbia did not stand upon the cost is shown, according to Gonzales, in the cheerful expenditure of many thousands of dollars in other manifestations of greeting to the President. The committeeman tartly rebukes Senator Tillman's letter considering "grotesque" his "essay" of the role of a Ward McAllister.

Mr. Gonzales recalls that the Senator attended a banquet in his honor in Charleston, and according to his own account, "took the hide off his hosts and rubbed in salt." He also says something about a "notorious lack of courtesy and refinement," and concludes:

"When it comes to maintaining the good name of South Carolina, for which he now essays to be jealous, Tillman's display of an appetite for getting something for nothing or much for little, which had its incipient manifestation when he was governor in the cultivation of a private oat crop at public expense, and its latest development in the Oregon land affair, might be detailed as startling inconsistency between the word and the deed."

Education Association. An important meeting of the Manchester Educational Association will be held to-night at the High School building. A full attendance is hoped for, as there will be the election of officers for the coming year and other business.

Street Improvements. The street improvements which are being undertaken in the four wards of the city are expected to better the general appearance of Manchester to a great degree. Not long ago the Street Committee appropriated a large sum for this work, and more will be expended when it is needed. At all meetings of this body the uppermost thought has been in favor of beautifying the city as far as consistent with the funds in hand. Grades are being changed and broken in the city's limits to allow for its growth towards the suburbs.

New Post-Office. The new post-office, now in process of erection, will be opened to the public before long and will be an ornament to the city and credit to much larger city than Manchester. It is well adapted for all purposes and is a clear sign of the rapidly increasing prosperity of the city.

Rev. J. T. Haley, pastor of Stockton Street Baptist Church, occupied the pulpit at Oak Grove yesterday morning. At the same service Rev. D. G. Lancaster, of the latter church, was in Mr. Haley's pulpit.

Rev. George H. McAden, of Suffolk, preached at Decatur Street Methodist Church at both services yesterday. He also lectured at the Bible class at 9:30 A. M. Mr. McAden was at one time pastor of the church.

Rev. J. Clarence Miles delivered an inspiring address yesterday morning at Clifton Street Baptist Church on "The Last Days of the Apostle Paul." Reviewing vividly the last tragic rays of the apostle's life, including his appearance before the Sanhedrin, his visions and his improvement, Mr. Miles concluded his sermon with a vivid picture of the martyrdom of the saint.

HARRIMAN SALE

Adolph Lewisohn Buys Fifth Avenue Home Site.

NEW YORK, November 14.—Adolph Lewisohn bought yesterday for about $700,000 from the Edward H. Harriman estate the five-story dwelling house 811 Fifth Avenue, on a plot 53.3 by 175 feet. The premises were occupied for some years by the late "Heber" K. Bishop. Adjoining is the Dows house, also owned by the Harriman estate. Neither the Dows nor the Bishop house, however, was ever occupied by Mr. Harriman. His last city home was 874 Fifth Avenue.

Mr. Lewisohn lives at 9 West Fifty-seventh Street, and his purchase of the upper Fifth Avenue house confirms the announcement reported last week that Fifth-seventh Street, from Madison to Sixth Avenue, was destined to become in the near future a big retail shopping center if some real transactions being perfected were successfully launched. The probability of business getting a firm foothold in the street before many months have passed was given yesterday as the reason for Mr. Lewisohn deciding to join the upper Fifth Avenue residential colony.

This sale recalls the efforts made by the late Mr. Harriman to build or buy a permanent home in this city. In 1907 Mr. Harriman bought the old Latham Hotel site at the northeast corner of Fifty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, on which to erect a house for his own occupancy. He paid $75,000 for that plot. As there was talk soon afterward of an apartment house being built on an adjoining plot, he abandoned his original permanent city home project. Last March he bought the Dows house at the north corner of Sixty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, and a little later the Bishop house. He intended to have the two houses enlarged so that there would be a solidium on the roof. It was really to be an open-air roof garden, and there he expected to spend many hours. Later the two houses were to be made into one.
